Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1756-1791) REQUIEM • Mark Adrian, Conductor

The unique circumstances surrounding the composition of Mozart's Requiem are remarkable for their almost Dickensian melodrama. Just a few weeks before his death in 1791 at the age of only thirty-five, Mozart was approached by a gentleman acting on behalf of an anonymous patron who wished to commission from him a Requiem Mass. This patron we now know to be Count Franz von Walsegg-Stuppach, whose wife had died in February that year. The Count, who was a keen and able amateur musician, wished to be regarded as a major composer and saw in this commemorative commission an opportunity to further his own ends by passing off the Requiem as his own. He therefore conducted all business transactions with Mozart in secrecy so as to preserve his own anonymity; hence the subterfuge of sending a business agent to act on his behalf. On several occasions this gentleman arrived unannounced at the composer’s house. To the dying Mozart, well known for his superstitious nature and quite possibly sensing his own impending demise, these mysterious visitations had all the hallmarks of the supernatural.

By the time he started work on the Requiem Mozart was already terminally ill, and parts of the composition were actually written whilst on his death-bed. In the event, he died before he could complete it, to the great consternation of his widow, Constanze. Payment for the work had already been received, and she feared that if it was handed over incomplete the commissioning patron would refuse to accept it and expect his money to be returned. She therefore decided to elicit the help of some other composer who might be able and willing to finish it for her, but despite several attempts being made, notably by Joseph Eybler and Maximilian Stadler, none came to fruition. Eventually Constanze approached Franz Süssmayr. There were many advantages to this arrangement; Süssmayr was one of Mozart’s more able pupils and had been with him a good deal during the final year of his life. He had several times played through the completed parts and discussed the instrumentation with Mozart. Why, then, had Süssmayr been not been Constanze’s first choice, despite the fact that he had been the composer’s closest musical confidante and knew what his intentions were in respect of the Requiem? This is but one of several intriguing questions, the answers to which we will almost certainly never know, but which will no doubt continue to fascinate musical historians.

Of all work’s movements, only the opening ‘Kyrie’ had Mozart managed to complete in its entirety. For most of the others he had written the vocal parts and a figured bass line (a kind of harmonic shorthand), leaving just the orchestration, for which he had clearly indicated his intentions. For reasons unknown, Mozart postponed writing the seventh movement, the ‘Lacrymosa,’ until after writing movements eight and nine, but managed only the first eight bars before death at last overtook him. He left a number of other fragments, such as the trombone solo at the opening of the ‘Tuba Mirum.’ Süssmayr completed the ‘Lacrymosa,’ and composed the whole of the last three movements, Mozart having passed away before he could even begin these sections.

Süssmayr used substantial parts of the orchestration begun by Stadler and Eybler, and for the closing passages he repeated Mozart’s own music from the opening movement, an idea which according to Constanze, Mozart himself had suggested. Much more daunting, however, was the task of writing the entire ‘Sanctus,’ ‘Benedictus’ and ‘Agnus Dei’ himself, but by the end of 1792 he had finished the task.

A copy was made of the completed score before it was handed over to Count Walsegg’s envoy, but no mention was made of Süssmayr’s part in its composition and for many years it was generally believed that Mozart had indeed written the entire Requiem. Amongst Mozart’s circle, however, it was common knowledge that the composer had not lived to see its completion. Consequently, some considerable controversy later ensued as to the work’s authenticity, compounded by the fact that Count Walsegg’s score disappeared for nearly fifty years, to be rediscovered only in 1839. Fortunately, this complete score and Mozart’s original unfinished manuscripts did both survive, and are now securely housed in the Vienna State Library. Comparison of the two sources has shown quite clearly which parts Mozart either wrote down or indicated in the form of sketches and footnotes, and which parts were completed and composed by his pupil.

departed from the pains of hell and from the deep pit; deliver them from the lion's mouth; let not hell swallow them up, let them not fall into darkness: but let Michael, the holy standard-bearer, bring them into the holy light, which once thou promised to Abraham and to his seed.

Sacrifices and prayers of praise, O Lord, we offer to thee.
Receive them, Lord, on behalf of those souls we commemorate this thou promised to Abraham and to his seed.

Jennifer also serves as Artistic Director of Vashon Opera, which will present Aaron Copland’s The Tender Land in May of 2010.

Mezzo-soprano Kathryn Weld has performed extensively throughout the United States, Canada, Europe, and Japan. Her credits include two solo appearances with the New York Philharmonic, and made her Carnegie Hall debut in Bach’s Mass in B Minor with Musica Sacra. While living in Germany, Weld was a featured soloist with such prominent ensembles as the Bavarian Radio Choir, the Consortium Musicum of Munich, and the Prague Philharmonic. Other international performances include those with the Sapporo Symphony and the Telemann Chamber Orchestra in Japan, the Mark Morris Dance Company, and the Philharmonia Baroque Orchestra.

Within the Northwest, Weld has appeared with dozens of ensembles, including the Seattle Symphony, the Oregon Symphony, the Helena Symphony, the Wyoming Symphony, and the Portland Baroque Orchestra. Her 2008 appearances with the Seattle Symphony in Alexander Nevsky elicited strong praise for “her beauty of tone, a long line and a handsome shaping of Prokofiev’s phrases”. (Seattle PI, RM Campbell)

On the stage, Weld has appeared with the Seattle Opera, the Regensburg Opera Theater in Germany, Opera Carolina, Tacoma Opera, and the State Repertory Opera of New Jersey, among others.

Acclaimed for her interpretations of lieder and contemporary art song, Weld is a favorite guest artist in chamber music concerts and in recital. Recent recital tours have included guest appearances in Paris, Moscow, St. Petersburg, and Osaka. Weld serves as an Affiliate Artist Voice Faculty at Western Washington University and at Cornish College of the Arts.

Gary D. Cannon, tenor, has appeared as a soloist with Pacific Northwest Ballet, Seattle Philharmonic, and the Auburn, Rainier, and Eastside symphony orchestras, in repertoire as far reaching as Mozart’s Requiem, Gounod’s St. Cecilia Mass, Bernstein’s West Side Story Suite, and P.D.Q. Bach’s Iphigenia in Brooklyn. He also regularly sings with The Tudor Choir and Choral Arts. Cannon’s recital repertoire ranges from Schubert songs to Britten arias. He has performed with the Kronos Quartet, members of the Tallis Scholars, and the stage chorus of Seattle Opera. He appears frequently on video game and film soundtracks and trailers.

In addition to his activities as a singer, Cannon is artistic director of the Cascadian Chorale and the Vashon Island Chorale, chorusmaster of the Northwest Mahler Festival, and director of Sine Nomine, a Renaissance ensemble under the aegis of the Early Music Guild. He has conducted the Anna Bay Chamber Choir, Kirkland Choral Society, and several ensembles at the University of Washington, where he is currently researching a doctoral dissertation on the early life and works of William Walton.

Equally at home in everything from Shakespeare to Sondheim and Monteverdi to Verdi, baritone Glenn Guhr has always prided himself on his versatility. He has appeared in operas, operettas, musicals, plays, and film with such companies as the Pacific Northwest Ballet, Seattle Opera, Seattle Early Music Guild, Tacoma Opera, The St. Louis Shakespeare Company, Theatre Factory St. Louis, and the History Channel in such roles as Gianni Schicchi, Papageno (The Magic Flute), Ford (Falstaff), Germont (La Traviata), Guglielmo (Così fan tutte), Grosvenor (Patience), and Fred Graham/Petruchio (Kiss Me, Kate).

In addition to his stage roles, Mr. Guhr appears frequently in recital and concert in the Pacific Northwest, performing with the Walla Walla Symphony, the Bellevue Philharmonic, Orchestra Seattle/Seattle Chamber Singers, the Seattle Choral Company, the Everett Symphony, the Port Angeles Symphony, the Seattle Philharmonic and others.

In the first four months of this year, Mr. Guhr has or will appear in five different opera productions with Seattle Opera, the Seattle Opera Young Artists Program, Black Box Opera Theatre, and Bellevue Opera, as well as singing in several concerts and recitals.

Mr. Guhr received a BA in music from Tabor College and an MM in Music History from Kansas State University. He also completed course work towards a PhD in Musicology at Washington University in St. Louis before turning his full attention to performance. In 2002, he finished a DMA in Vocal Performance at the University of Washington, where he studied with renowned baritone Julian Patrick.
Brahms is so often hailed for his orchestral, piano, and chamber music, that it is easy to forget his mastery of the choral art. Indeed, his only steady jobs were conducting choirs: first the amateur court choir at Detmold, then a women’s choir in his native Hamburg, and finally the Vienna Singakademie. In addition to the famed German Requiem and numerous sacred and secular works for chorus, Brahms made many choral folksong arrangements. In stiller Nacht was published in a set of German folksongs, but is not, in fact, a folksong itself. Brahms adapted the text from the writings of Friedrich von Spee, a seventeenth-century German Jesuit priest. The original text concerns Christ’s suffering at the Mount of Olives, but Brahms takes a more universal approach to the text, recalling laments of any variety. It is set homophonically, with each of the four vocal parts moving simultaneously. Occasional brief silences underline the weeping of the speaker.

In stiller Nacht, zur ersten Wacht, ein Stimm begunnt zu klagen,
der nächt’ge Wind hat süß und lind
zu mir den Klang getragen;

Von herbem Leid und Traurigkeit ist mir das Herz zerflossen, die Blümelein, mit Tränen rein
hab ich sie all begossen.

Der schöne Mond will untergahn,
für Leid nicht mehr mag scheinen,
die Sterne lan ihr Glitzen stahn,
mit mir sie wollen weinen.

Kein Vogelsang, noch Freudenklang man höret in den Lüften, kein labiaus auch mit mir
in Steinen und in Klüften.

In stillest night, at the first watch,
a voice begins to lament;
the night wind sweetly and gently
to me brings the sound.

With bitter sorrow and mournfulness
is my heart melted;
the little flowers, with pure tears
do I shower them all.

The beautiful moon wants to set
from sorrow, and never again to shine;
the stars, their glittering fades:
with me they wish to weep.

No birdsong, no joyful sound
can be heard in the air,
the wild animals mourn also with me
among the stones and in gorges.

John David Earnest, trained at the University of Texas at Austin and now based in New York City, is best known for his many songs and choral works. That said, he is no stranger to larger forms, having composed two symphonies, two piano concertos, and four one-act operas, with a fifth currently in progress. He has written on commission for America’s leading choirs, including Chanticleer and the Santa Fe Desert Chorale. One of the Northwest’s premiere ensembles, Choral Arts, commissioned the present work and premiered it last spring.

In choosing to set My Papa’s Waltz, by the great mid-twentieth-century American poet Theodore Roethke, Earnest has presented himself a daunting challenge. The text easily lends itself to two apparently opposing interpretations: one, an innocent nostalgia for a simpler time when a manual-laborer father playfully danced with his young son before bedtime; the other, a troubling memory in which the waltz symbolizes parental abuse. Perhaps the deeper truth to the poem is in a melding together of these two visions. Instead of choosing sides, Earnest adopts a reading more concerned with words than with hidden meanings. Hence he gives us a slightly off-kilter, slightly dissonant, mostly waltz-like setting, and allows you, the listener, to decide for yourself.
The evening hangs beneath the moon,
A silver thread on darkened dune.
With closing eyes and resting head
I know that sleep is coming soon.

Upon my pillow, safe in bed,
A thousand pictures fill my head,
I cannot sleep, my mind's a-flight;
And yet my limbs seem made of lead.

If there are noises in the night,
A frightening shadow, flickering light;
Then I surrender unto sleep,
Where clouds of dream give second sight.

What dreams may come, both dark and deep,
Of flying wings and soaring leap
As I surrender unto sleep,
As I surrender unto sleep.

Growing up in Nevada, Eric Whitacre’s ambition was to be a rock-star. He never considered classical music until his undergradacy at the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, later writing: “I was sort of tricked into joining the choir (there were a lot of cute girls in the soprano section) and on the first day of class we started rehearsing the Kyrie from the Mozart Requiem. My life was profoundly changed on that day, and I became a choir geek of the highest order.” Further training at the Juilliard School helped him to become the leading American choral composer of his generation.

One of Whitacre’s most well-known works, Sleep, has an unusually complex history. The year 2000 saw the premiere of Whitacre’s setting of Robert Frost’s famous poem, Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening. The work gained in popularity, until Whitacre was issued a cease-and-desist order from the Frost estate: he had neglected to secure permission to use the poem. Legal wrangling followed, but the Frost estate stayed firm. Finally, in lieu of setting aside his work, Whitacre asked a poet friend, Charles Anthony Silvestri to craft a new text to suit the pre-existing music. Whitacre’s hallmark techniques are all present: compact chords voiced so as to seem less dissonant, harmonies featuring the intervals of minor and major seconds, and carefully notated silences.

Rainier Chorale is in its 27th season of providing quality music to our audiences. Ron Bayer has been the Artistic Director since 1996 and under his direction, the chorus has grown to a current membership of 78 singers and the performance of three concerts each season including a holiday concert in December, a Masterworks in March and the lighter Pops concert in June. Rainier Chorale has performed at Carnegie Hall, the Good Will Games opening ceremony, the Bach Festival in Oregon, and has been a guest of Northwest Associated Arts with a performance of Carl Orf’s Carmina Burana at Benaroya Hall.

It has always been important to the Chorale to give back to the community who so wholeheartedly supports us and in April of 2004, a scholarship program open to graduating high school seniors pursuing a degree in vocal music was developed. Please email Shannon@rainierchorale.org for application details for this season. Continuing with returning back to the community, in 2007 Rainier Chorale established Rainier Youth Choirs. Leora Schwitters, a well known director of youth choirs and strong advocate of music education, agreed to be the Artistic Director and RYC now offers an award winning program which provides music education for singers in third grade to college. Visit rainieryouthchoirs.org for more information about this organization. To keep Rainier Chorale and Rainier Youth Choirs under one roof, Rainier Choral Arts was formed to be the umbrella organization.

RON BAYER, Artistic Director: Ron Bayer has been the artistic director of the Rainier Chorale since the 1996-1997 concert season. When not with the Chorale, he is director of choral activities and Fine Arts Division Chair at Green River Community College in Auburn. He currently teaches an American Popular Music course, music theory and ear training and group piano. He began his career teaching choral music at the high school level in Wisconsin and Minnesota, where he gained recognition as a strong, traditional choral director and also a leader in the then-emerging vocal jazz scene. After completing a nine-year stint in the upper Midwest, he came to the Pacific Northwest following the lure of the mountains, teaching briefly at Mount Vernon High School before coming to Green River. Ron received his bachelor’s degree in music education (in both vocal and instrumental music) at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside, and a master’s degree in choral music and conducting at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, where he studied with Harold Decker. Further graduate studies in jazz education were pursued at Western Michigan University where he studied piano with and assisted Steve Zegree. An avid mountaineer in his off time, Ron is currently in demand as an adjudicator, clinician, pianist, and arranger.

JULIE SWIENTY, Principal Accompanist: Julie earned a bachelor’s degree in piano performance with a minor in pedagogy and conducting. Before moving to Seattle, she was a professor of music at CSUN, and principal accompanist for the Moorpark Masterworks Chorale. She currently assists the music program at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church in Covington, as well as maintaining a full private teaching studio. Julie is married and has three children.

Thompson has often been hailed as the dean of American choral music. Early in his career, Thompson focused on orchestral works, creating three finely crafted symphonies, but by the 1940s he had turned predominantly to choral writing. His choral compositions form the core of the American repertory: indeed, his Alleluia remains the most frequently performed piece of American choral music. Not bad for a chap who, as an undergraduate, had failed in his first audition to join the Harvard Glee Club; he later quipped, “My life has been an attempt to strike back.” Thompson would eventually become not only a professor at Harvard, but director of Philadelphia’s esteemed Curtis Institute.

The Road Not Taken stems from Thompson’s cycle of Robert Frost poems entitled Frostiana, composed for the bicentennial of the incorporation of Amherst, Massachusetts. Thompson sets the stage by having the entire choir sing in unison for the first two verses: a pre-emptive hint that a traveler can only follow one road. In the third verse, as Frost proclaims “I kept the first for another day”, Thompson lets the tenors depict the “other road” as they briefly splice from the rest of the choir. Much has been written about the fact that Frost’s poem is ambiguous as to whether “the difference” was a positive or negative one, or whether it even matters. Thompson takes an unusual approach by depicting both possibilities: after the last line of text is sung, the piano embarks on a playful statement of the main melody, which is concluded by a more somber setting in the choir. Both Frost and Thompson allow the listener to draw his own conclusions.

SING OF SPRING (1936) .................................................................

George Gershwin—that famed master of Broadway stage and popular song—was also one of the great classical composers of the early twentieth century. Some of his works, particularly Rhapsody in Blue, are orchestral standards throughout the world. In the field of choral music, it is more common to find versions of his solo songs gussied up by arrangers whose good intentions may outbalance their skill. In Sing of Spring, we have that rarest of beasts: a work scored for chorus by Gershwin himself. It was written for the 1936 film A Damsel in Distress. The film’s English setting finds its way into the choral writing, which resembles a Victorian partsong or even an Elizabethan madrigal. Nevertheless, there are all the Gershwin hallmarks: a brilliant tune, jazz-inflected harmonies, and sheer joie de vivre.

ZION’S WALLS (1954).................................................................arranged by Aaron Copland (1900-1990), adapted by Glenn Koponen

In the 1930s and ‘40s, Brooklyn-born and Paris-trained Aaron Copland produced orchestral ballets such as Billy the Kid, Rodeo, and especially Appalachian Spring, which illustrated his firm belief that American composers should write on American themes. His film scores, opera, and even abstract orchestral works reinforced this trend. To aid him in fashioning a uniquely “American” sound, the definition of which is still argued by musicologists today, Copland extensively researched nineteenth-century musical Americana such as minstrel-show songs, traditional ballads, children’s songs, political campaign tunes, and Revivalist hymns such as Zion’s Walls. In 1950 and 1951, he made arrangements of ten such works as Old American Songs, scored for solo voice and piano. Subsequent adaptations have secured these tunes firmly in the repertoire of American choirs. Copland sets Zion’s Walls—a gathering-song which first appeared in the 1855 tune-book Social Harp—as alternately raucous or contemplative, but always heartfelt.

Come, fathers and mothers; come, sisters and brothers; O fathers, don’t you feel determined to meet within the walls of Zion. We’ll shout and go round the walls of Zion.

The Vashon Island Chorale was established in 1989 and is dedicated to the promotion of fine choral music in the Vashon community. Membership is open without audition.

For more information, including performance dates for the 2010-11 season, visit www.vashonislandchorale.org.
The 2009-2010 theme for the Everett Chorale’s forty-fourth season is “Say It With A Song” and that is exactly what our audience is enjoying! This 90-voice ensemble, associated with Everett Community College, attracts a diverse group of singers interested in expanding their musical knowledge while sharing their joy of music for the enrichment and enjoyment of the greater Everett community.

The Everett Chorale has become the preeminent vocal ensemble in Snohomish County as they offer a quality musical experience with a variety of choral pieces programmed by Music Director/Conductor Lee Mathews. Performances include music ranging from classical to light hearted, spirituals and folk music, romantic ballads and Broadway favorites. We often feature outstanding area vocal and instrumental soloists and ensembles, including our own Choral Arts Orchestra. Our annual “Broadway Sing-Along” fundraiser lets our audience be the star as they join us in singing favorite show tunes.

The Chorale takes pride in being a truly “community choir.” February of 2002 marked the first “International Choral Festival” hosted by the Everett Chorale with five choirs from the Puget Sound and Canada providing free concerts throughout the community. In 2006, the Everett Chorale began a series of community outreach performances. Ensembles of twelve to thirty singers entertain at retirement and senior centers throughout the county as well as at community events and celebrations such as the “Festival of Trees Community Open House” at the Everett Events Center, the Argosy Cruise “Christmas Ships Festival,” Everett Silvertips hockey games, and at a wide variety of venues such as the Everett Naval Station, local charities and service clubs. In 2008, the Chorale shared its knowledge and love of music with school children by performing in several Snohomish County public schools.

Everett Chorale members have had the opportunity to sing at many amazing venues and locations. The 1997-98 season was highlighted with a trip to Vienna, Austria, where 50 Chorale members participated in the annual Advent Sing. The Chorale traveled to New York twice to sing in Carnegie Hall under the direction of John Rutter, performing his Gloria in 2002 and Haydn’s Creation in 2004. We joined other choirs in 2007 for a very special performance at the International Choral Festival in Beijing, China. This July, Chorale members will travel to Rome to sing at St. Peter’s Basilica in the Vatican.

The Chorale has often been the guest of the Everett Symphony for performances including the Mozart Requiem, Beethoven’s Ninth Symphony, Carl Orff’s Carmina Burana, Brahms Requiem, Mendelssohn’s Hymn of Praise and most recently, the Faure Requiem. In 2005, the Everett Chorale joined Choral Sounds Northwest, the Issaquah Chorale and the Rainier Symphony for the thrilling “Ode to Joy” concert in Seattle’s Benaroya Hall. We are delighted to be back for this performance of the Mozart Requiem.

He has also taught music at various levels in public schools and recently retired from the Snohomish School District. Lee has conducted church choirs for over forty years and presently serves as Director of Music Ministry at Our Savior’s Lutheran Church in Everett.

Mr. Mathews has been an active traveler with his choral groups over the years. He founded the Montana Youth Choir in 1973 and made six European tours with this outstanding ensemble. He has traveled to Vancouver, B.C., Vienna, Austria, New York City and most recently Beijing, China with the Everett Chorale. The Sammamish Symphony Orchestra, led by Music Director and Conductor R. Joseph Scott, has grown from a handful of dedicated musicians to the full-sized ensemble you hear today. Founded eighteen years ago as the Providence Point Players, the orchestra has had a long commitment to Eastside communities. The Sammamish Symphony Orchestra Association was incorporated in 1994 as a non-profit organization. Our Mission is to serve Sammamish and the surrounding communities by making great orchestral music readily accessible to all residents and by increasing the public’s musical literacy through performances and educational programs by local musicians. The orchestra is also committed to educational outreach by promoting the involvement of young people in the performing arts and offering opportunities for learning and mentorship.

Now in his eleventh season as Music Director and Conductor of the Sammamish Symphony Orchestra, R. Joseph Scott has been a vibrant force in the Northwest musical community for over 40 years. Prior to joining the Sammamish Symphony, Mr. Scott founded the Bellevue Philharmonic Orchestra and was their Music Director, Conductor and General Manager from 1967-1997. He is Principal Conductor of Lyric Opera Northwest and has appeared as Guest Conductor with numerous musical ensembles, including the Bellevue Opera. He has conducted world premieres of works by Alan Hovhaness, Vaclav Nelhybel, and various regional composers.

Maestro Scott has conducted concerts featuring a diverse array of artists, including Metropolitan Opera star Roberta Peters; violinist Pamela Frank; Broadway Tony Award Winner Anna Maria Alberghetti; the Seattle Opera Chorus; the Empire Brass Quintet; and vocalists Maureen McGovern, Lou Rawls and Marni Nixon. An accomplished instrumentalist, he performed as Principal Oboist and Principal Tympanist with several Northwest orchestras and toured Europe twice with Grande Ronde Symphony.

Mr. Scott attended the University of Oregon School of Music and studied conducting with Eugene Furst and Wolfgang Martin of the Portland Opera, Henry Holt of the Seattle Opera, Mikael Scheremetiew of the Thalia Conservatory, and Vilem Sokol of the Seattle Youth Symphony.

MARK ADRIAN, founder of Northwest Associated Arts and Cantaré Vocal Ensemble, has been involved in the Greater Seattle choral music community since 1981. For 21 years he conducted ChoralSounds Northwest, the first of NWAA’s performing groups.

Mr. Adrian earned his BA in Music from the University of Washington, studying with renowned conductors Abraham Kaplan, Geoffrey Boers and Peter Erös. He has since gone on to complete graduate coursework for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree, specializing in choral conducting.

Equally at home in everything from Broadway musicals to the most contemporary choral compositions, Mr. Adrian has most recently served as guest conductor of the Bainbridge Chorale and interim conductor of the Seattle Women’s Ensemble. He has led music programs at churches throughout Seattle and is currently director of music at St. Catherine of Siena in the Maple Leaf neighborhood of north Seattle.
